Animal Sciences and Industry - Business Option

Your Degree Option

The Animal Sciences and Industry curriculum combines studies in nutrition, genetics, reproduction, behavior, physiology, business, and technology with production, management, and agribusiness skills. The goal of the industry is to produce safe, quality food animal products to meet consumers' demands both domestically and internationally. The Business Option is for the student who is interested in entering the broad field of agribusiness - in finance, management, personnel administration, merchandising, marketing, or another area. This option uses many courses from the College of Business Administration and the Department of Agricultural Economics. A minor in business can be easily incorporated into this curriculum and is encouraged.

Your Career

A strength of the degree earned in Animal Sciences is the diversity of career opportunities. They range from self-employment to jobs with large corporations. In the business world, positions include management, sales, product development, personnel, regulation, and field service. Education positions include county agent, teacher, research worker, and laboratory director. Communication businesses hire editors, field representatives, radio broadcasters, and public relations professionals. A wide range of enterprises employ K-State animal sciences graduates: artificial insemination services, feed companies, banks, equipment suppliers, cooperatives, breed associations, meat packers, food processors, dairy plants, feedlots, poultry breeders, equipment manufacturers, commercial hog and poultry farms, and ranching operations.
